Coleman Town Council Holds Regular Meeting

Purchase of Tractor-Loader Left in Abeyance Pending Further Study.

Although listed as "Budget Night", the regular council meeting of the Town of Coleman did not get around to the "head scratching" annual attempt to balance requirements with income until they had ploughed through an amazing amount of routine matters that occupied their attention for two and a half hours prior to rolling up their sleeves for the "Battle of the Budget".

The property problems of two ratepayers who attended the meeting to present them, met with the council's sympathetic attention during the early part of the long session. The first problem was presented by Alf Phillips, who charged that his next door neighbors were piling up earth against his fence and buildings and had ignored his protests.

Councillors were unanimous in their opinion that Mr. Phillips was justified in complaining but in order to clarify any legal point involved, they decided to refer the matter to Solicitor Bannan before taking any action.

The second problem was presented by a ratepayer whose property straddled the town limits and the suburb of Grafton, which, though considered a part of Greater Coleman, lies beyond the town's municipal jurisdiction. The ratepayer in question, Bill Fraser, one of the greatest playmaking centers ever produced in Western Canada hockey circles, was a problem a little tougher than any he had ever encountered during his puckchasing career and he passed the puck to the Council to see what they could do with it.

Fraser's immediate concern was the question of the town's willingness to put in water. He explained to the gathering that he was unaware of the fact that the lots he had purchased were not wholly within the town limits. He had gone ahead with the building of a home, only to be informed that part of the projected residence was inside town limits and part outside.

"Well, make sure you place the kitchen on the town side and you'll be sure of getting it," was the locality expert's solution offered by one of the councillors. Another saw the possibilities of the former puck star scoring a couple of neat "goals" by having the boundary line running through the direct center of the house and "checking" the tax-collecting bids of both authorities concerned.

After the brief, banterous approach to Mr. Fraser's problem, councillors took the matter up seriously and assured him that necessary steps would be taken to ensure that he received the services required.

Another round in the friendly bout over the necessity of purchasing a Universal tractor-loader next occupied the Council's attention but after considerable re-hashing of the previous arguments, pro and con, the matter was left in abeyance pending further studies of various machines that were likely to become available in the near future.

Spokesmen for the "Let's buy it now" faction reiterated their claims that the immediate purchase of the contentious machine would improve services immensely and "pay for itself, while doing it".

"You can't give the ratepayers $50,000 service on a $20,000 budget, don't forget that," countered a member of the "We can't afford it, now," group. He went on, "Nobody disputes the advantages to be gained from possessing such a machine, but are the ratepayers willing to pay for the improved service in the form of added taxes?"

Coleman Patients in Municipal Hospital

Coleman patients admitted to the Municipal hospital during the past week were: Keith Krish, Mr. Joseph Polski, Mrs. Johana Kanik, Mr. Michael Kuchytyn, Mrs. Elsie Coccione, Mr. Michael Wirste, Mrs. Rose Moore, Mrs. Edna Anderson, David McGillivray, Mrs. Julia Galla, Mr. Alan Brown, Mr. John Applebeck and Mrs. Frances Barnhill.

Vagrant Was First New Patient

Jailed On Drunkenness Charge Following Release From Hospital.

The new Municipal hospital's first patient, other than those brought in from the Coleman hospital, was Fred Melnyk, address unknown, who was brought into the institution for treatment of facial injuries suffered in a fall on Coleman's main street. Hospital officials were unable to secure much information from Melnyk as to his relative condition.

He professed the statement that he had a brother at a place called Drayton, in northern Alberta, but was unable to confirm this. After two days treatment, Melnyk was removed from the hospital on Wednesday morning to face charges of intoxication.

The case was heard before Fred Radford, J.P. of Blairmore who found Melnyk guilty and sentenced him to one month's imprisonment at the Lethbridge Jail.

A suggestion that the matter be put to a vote was rejected, but the unavoidable absence of Councillors Dible and Nicholas. It was at this point that the motion to leave the issue in abeyance was passed, with the leader of the "Let's Buy" section sticking to his guns and proving the lone dissenter.

In contrast to the contention over the tractor, councillors were unanimous in approving reaction to a request from Police Chief Antle that Council provide him and his assistants with new side arms. The spirit of the old West was clearly in evidence as every councillor came to the edge of his seat and entered the animated discussion as to the type of sidearm most suitable.

The Chiefs personal preference was not disputed but these legislative "Sons of the Pioneers" were not going to pass up a chance to discuss the merits of the modern descendants of the old "six-gun". In reply to a question re the old gun, the Chief reported that it had been "on the blink" for some time.

This was all the urging Council needed to authorize the immediate purchase of suitable sidearms. "Get them as soon as possible," was the remark of one councillor, obviously taken aback by the mental conjuring of visions of Coleman's constables on the night beat, minus the petasque and defensive powers of a gun. "I certainly wouldn't go around without one," he concluded.

The future status of the Ambulance hitherto operated by the Miners Union had been settled in the report by Councillor Wood, one of the delegates appointed by the Council at its previous meeting to meet with Coal Co. and Union officials to decide the mercy vehicle's status pending its being absorbed by the Ambulance service to be maintained at, and in conjunction with the newly opened Municipal Hospital.

The Union would continue to operate the vehicle to the end of the month after which the Coal companies of Coleman would operate it to the past hospital.

It was past 10 p.m. when the Council started discussing the all-important budget and due to the future status of the Ambulance complete report of the financial statement and the setting of the mill rate was not immediately available for publication.

Pass Miners Plan May Day Celebration

Michel Will Be Scene of Annual Celebration for District Miners And Families.

Jack Dugdale, secretary of the Bellevue local of the United Mine Workers of America, informed the Journal on Saturday that this year's May day celebrations of Crow's Nest Pass miners would be staged in Michel, May 1. He added that no information was yet forthcoming as to what program had been lined up by the Michel local, who are in charge of arrangements.

It is known that baseball and soccer exhibitions will be staged as part of the entertainment and in this connection the Hillcrest senior baseball club have been invited to meet Michel-Natal team in one of the contests. Mr. Dugdale also outlined the future schedule for May day celebrations by declaring that they would be staged in the geographical order in which the mining towns were strung out along the Pass in contrast to the present system of selecting a town only a few weeks prior to the miners big annual event.

Bellevue will be the site for the 1950 gathering and Blairmore, Coleman, Michel and Fernie will follow in that order in the succeeding years.

Mrs Coccione Wins Journal Baby Gifts

Picked The Right Time to Stage Blessed Event She Tells Reporter

Mrs. Dan Coccione was the lucky mother in the Journal's "First Coleman Baby" race when she gave birth to a five pound, five oz. daughter at 10:30 p.m. Thursday, April 14, in the Crow's Nest Pass Municipal Hospital. "I certainly picked the right time to have my baby," she said. "I certainly picked the right time to have my baby," she said.

Mrs. Coccione told a reporter who called in to interview her the following day that she was assured of a fair start in life from token gifts that will be showered on her by Coleman merchants and organizations. Dan, who was also present at the interview was scratching his head over the prospect of having to contact a total of forty merchants and organizations to collect the gifts.

He denied a rumour that he had cut down his "total bill" by losing a bet of $50 that the newcomer would be a boy. "Nothing doing," said Dan, "I wouldn't bet on something like that, they'd cross you up every time."

Coleman Miner Seriously Injured

Nike Kuchytyn Seriously Hurt In McGillivray Mine Accident

Michael Kuchytyn, 48, was the victim of a serious accident that occurred in the McGillivray Creek Coal and Coal Company mine, Coleman, on Tuesday evening at approximately 7:30 p.m. Kuchytyn and his partner, Joe Machowicz, were engaged in their usual tasks of digging coal when a sudden fall of top coal struck and partially buried Kuchytyn. Machowicz rushed for aid and following first aid treatment at the scene of the accident, the injured miner was quickly conveyed to the Crow's Nest Pass municipal hospital.

Full extent of his injuries were still not known Wednesday as in addition to a fractured shoulder the attendant doctors expressed concern over the possibilities of spinal injuries. Late Wednesday, hospital officials described his condition as "only fair".

Fire Damages Home Of Norman Ash

Early Morning Blaze Causes Extensive Damage.

A spectacular fire caused extensive damage to the home of Norman Ash, early Sunday morning. The blaze was first noticed by Mr. Ash at approximately 4 a.m. and he immediately aroused his family and shepherded them to the safety of neighboring homes. Prompt action by Mr. Ash and his neighbors and the speedy arrival of the Coleman fire brigade prevented the building from being razed but heavy damage to the structure and furnishings was caused before the blaze was brought under control.

Mr. Ash declined to estimate the amount of damage but ventured the opinion that it would be extensive.

Hospital Board Orders Fracture Table

Board Lost No Time in Putting Coleman Donation To Good Use.

The Crow's Nest Pass municipal hospital board lost no time in implementing the recent donation of $2,500 made by the Coleman local of the United Mine Workers of America when they authorized the purchase of a Albee-Corper orthopedic table and a Victor model P-3 combination fluoroscopic and radiographic unit, at the regular board meeting held at the weekend.

"This fracture table will be a god-send to the surgical staff," said Dr. E. J. Lissemer of Coleman when interviewed at the hospital Saturday. He expressed further satisfaction when informed the hospital board had received word that the table would be on its way within three weeks. The high percentage of fracture cases from nearby mines will constitute a major portion of the surgery to be performed and Pass doctors were unanimous in their delight at the immediate prospect of its installation.

In the meantime like a newly lauded ship, the unit has fully undergone the traditions of a "shakedown" cruise, the hospital is running smoothly into its second week with all departmental functions like experienced units within the confines of its still freshly adorned walls. Up to 8 p.m. Saturday, a total of 22 patients had been admitted and retained in the various wards to present the hospital's personnel with the opportunity to practice normal routine and efficiency.

A large congregation was present in St. Alban's church on Good Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. The service was an informal one with hymns, psalms and the reading of the story of the Crucifixion from the Gospels, with short devotions dividing the story into four sections. Rev. A. E. Goodwin spoke of the effect that this meditation should have on the mind and his heart of sin. It should instill in us love answering His love and penitence for the sins He died to save them from.

At the 11 o'clock Eucharist on Sunday morning the Church was filled with the largest congregation for some years. The Altar and hangings were white and the Altar Cross was flanked with pots of Easter lilies, carnations, tulips, stocks, snapdragons and Calla lilies. The flowers were given by Mrs. J. C. Richards, Mrs. Lorenz, Richards, Mrs. Fred Antrobus and Mrs. E. R. Kennedy. The church was gleaming with work put up on it by members of the Women's Guild.

The Year announced the gift of Altar cloth, trimmed with deep blue, and a complete set of Altar linen, by Mrs. Fred Antrobus in memory of her husband. Beautiful gifts were dedicated and used for the first time at this service.

In his sermon the Vicar spoke on the text "I know that my redeemer liveth." He stressed the fact that the Resurrection brings certainty and confidence into our faith. In the confusion

The allotment includes such outstanding subjects as "Flood Relief" the amazing pictorial record of last year's disastrous Fraser River floods and "Singing Stars of Tomorrow" an entertaining description of eastern Canada's nationally famous musical festival to encourage youthful vocalists.

Other films listed are: "After Six O'Clock," "Canada Dances," "Electricity," "Eye Witness," "Face of Time," "Gold From Gravel," "How Disease Travels," "More We Get Together," "Polish Dances," "Postman," "Primitive Painters," "Ten Little Farmers," "Your Children's Ears," "The Inside Story" (The Salmon Industry), "Story in a Teacup," "Current of Electricity," "Hypnurs" and "Flight Syphurs".

This is the finest and largest allotment ever consigned to the Pass library and officials of the local library are looking forward to a record demand for showings of the new list from various Pass organizations.

Louis Ondrick In Slide Truck Spill

Damage Estimated at Over $1,000 to Truck but Ondrick Escaped With Shaking Up

A five ton White truck driven by Louis Ondrick of Coleman, left the paved highway in the Frank slide about half a mile east of this village and tumbled into the huge rocks of the slide late Tuesday afternoon.

Driver Ondrick was going west through the slide and after the truck left the road and crashed over the rocks for about 50 yards, the nose of the huge vehicle buried itself in the rocks and the big box was thrown up onto the huge boulders. Damage is estimated, unofficially at $1,000 or over. The box was badly damaged as well as the cab, fenders and undercarriage.

Const. Wood of the RCMP, Blairmore, investigated the mishap while Mr. Ondrick was rushed to the Crow's Nest Pass hospital where Dr. C. A. Ross of Bellevue, treated him for minor lacerations. He is at present resting in the hospital and being treated for possible concussion of the brain as he received a bad bruise to his head.

of our world today it assures us that God is in control and His will will finally prevail. In our life as a Church and parish it would give us even greater confidence and enthusiasm than others who have not this sure basis. In our personal lives whatever our faults and weaknesses, it can bring victory and strength.

During the Communion the choir sang Merbecke's setting of the Agnus Dei and several of the Communion hymns. The largest number of persons made their Communion that has ever been recorded in St. Alban's Church. After the Blessing the service closed with the hymn "The strife is o'er, the battle done" as the choir moved slowly out in procession. A joyful and blessed Easter.

Natal Mother Gave Birth To New Hospital First Baby

Natal Mother Wins Lethbridge Herald Gifts in Close Race

"I really think it's wonderful," Mrs. Kay Savinkoff, of Natal, said when asked what her reaction was to the gifts won by her as yet unnamed daughter, for being the first baby born in the Crow's Nest Pass Municipal hospital. When asked if the possibilities of winning all the lovely gifts donated by Pass merchants in conjunction with the Lethbridge Herald's special hospital edition of April 4 had influenced her decision to enter the new hospital for the "blessed event," Mrs. Savinkoff said, "no, I was brought up in Blairmore and all my relatives and friends were here. Outside of my husband, I know very few people in Natal and I was a little nervous about the whole thing."

Mrs. Savinkoff, formerly Kathleen Joss, is a daughter of Michael Joss and the late Mrs. Joss, long time residents of Blairmore.

Her husband, Bill Savinkoff, is employed at the lumber mill operated by the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. Ltd. at Natal, B.C. They were married at St. Anne's Church, Blairmore, April 24, 1948. Queried as to the proud father's reaction, Mrs. Savinkoff smilingly answered, "once he was sure everything was alright, he was excited and happy about it."

In her bed in the same ward just across from Mrs. Savinkoff, Mrs. James Zemek, of Frank, did not appear unduly upset at missing by only two and a half hours the gifts won by her roommate. Mrs. Zemek's disappointment was apparently secondary to her proud recognition of the fact that her day old son was, in her own words, "our first Canadian".

Termination Of UNRRA

FOR FIVE AND ONE-HALF YEARS the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, known as UNRRA, carried on a great post-war relief project which helped immeasurably in dealing with the distress of those who suffered directly from the effects of the war. The world-wide operations of the administration were completed last September, but it was formally voted out of existence on March 31st of this year, when the Governing Central Committee agreed that the emergency task which it had undertaken was now completed. Remaining funds were turned over to successor organizations. It is encouraging to know that the need for such services are at an end, but the work of that great humanitarian effort will not soon be forgotten.

Supplies Sent From Canada

The total cost of UNRRA was estimated to be just under $4,000,000,000. Reports of the activities of the Administration show that $3,968,392,725 in cash, supplies, and services were distributed in various parts of the world during the five and one-half years of its existence. In carrying on the task of bringing relief and help to those who had suffered material loss and physical hardship because of the war, a great deal of help in the form of cash and supplies was sent from the United States and Canada. Canada was able to contribute much in the way of vitally-needed food supplies for those areas where the war had interfered with crops and normal food production and distribution.

Services Will Be Remembered

While UNRRA has now gone out of existence it will without doubt long be remembered for the great service it performed in bringing relief to war-torn countries. It is to be hoped that there will be done by united effort in solving such gigantic problems as those faced after the war in attempting to rehabilitate the many thousands of homeless and destitute people left after the hostilities ended. While this century has seen some very terrible developments in respect to warfare, it has also seen some great humanitarian undertakings, of which UNRRA stands out as one of the finest, and its work, and the men and women who helped to carry it out, will not soon be forgotten.

Willie: Please, Miss Parson, he got a wife."

Late for dinner at his brother's house, the well-known movie star Barry Fitzgerald stormed into the dining room and exclaimed, "Some lingering guests detained me at my place, or I would have been here on time."

"Lingering guests, eh?" his brother exclaimed sympathetically.

"Yes," Barry rejoined. "They are the kind of people who, when they stand up, think they have gone!"

"A burglar broke into my house when I was still at the club," said Smith to his friend.

"Did he get anything?" asked the friend.

"Yes, poor devil. He's in hospital. My wife thought it was me."

Jones was telling Smith that he had gone to a lawyer for advice. "Why spend money on a lawyer?" asked Smith. "Didn't you notice that he read the advice out of a book?"

"Sure," replied Jones. "But he knows what page it is on."

$300 Duty Free From U.S., But Buy On Credit

How's your credit in U.S.? It has to be good—or you'll have to get it established—if you plan to take advantage of eased Canadian customs regulations on goods you bring back from that States-side visit.

Those regulations, effective Jan. 1, allowed Canadians to bring back goods to a maximum value of $100 duty-free every four months; $300 for the year.

But — the purchases have to be made on credit. You get no addition to the $150 travel ration when you start out. Instead the Foreign Exchange Control Board promises to allow you to honor invoices on your return, on presentation of customs clearance papers.

That way FECC keeps track of things. And this applies as well to anyone who's able to get more than the $150 basic ration.

Of course, if you want to use your $150 travel ration to buy for cash it's okay. But these purchases are included in the total $300 duty-free goods.

Manitoba Agriculture Dept. Worried Over Grasshopper Prospects

H. E. Wood, director of extension work, recommended early seeding to protect the crops.

Predicts Bright Future For Prairie Farmers

REGINA.—A bright future for the farmers in the prairie provinces was painted by L. B. Thomson, director of Prairie Farm Rehabilitation, when he addressed the University Women's club here. His topic was "Water Conservation in Western Canada".

Mr. Thomson stated that moisture conservation—"an ability to conserve the rain that falls"—was vital to the national economy of Canada and went on to expound the theory that caragana belts and keeping the top of the soil scratched were of any real use in conservation.

He explained that the damming of coulees and the construction of ditches had not been for extensive irrigation projects but merely to insure there be enough water for stock and for maintaining small garden plots. The prairies' bright future would become a reality when the South Saskatchewan dam at Elbow and the resulting wide irrigation of a large acreage, and similar projects were completed.

In answer to the oft-heard query, "Why don't they get on with the project?" the speaker explained that a great many engineering problems had still to be completed before construction could be started.

These problems include the testing of the ground in a large area around the proposed site to ascertain there is no quicksand, as far as 1,000 feet down, or any other form of strata which would not withstand the strain of holding such a large quantity of water as will be held back by the damming of the river.

Then too, there is the problem of getting the permission of the other provinces to build the dam for there is the possibility that controlling the water in the river and through the Qu'Appelle valley may interfere with the power supply at Winnipeg, unlikely as it may seem to the layman.

Making a Feed Hopper For Poultry

The length is 6 ft. 6 in. The length may be adjusted to suit the size of the flock to be fed. The sides slope inward from the top downward, forcing the feed into the trough at the bottom.

The material may be tongue and groove lumber or shipyard material of standard manufacture. Partitions in the inside of the hopper should be made of crosswise boarding, so that if any cleats are needed they will run vertically, thus avoiding interference with the downward passage of feed.

Dawson Trapper Tells Of Beating Off Pack Of Vicious, Starving Dogs

DAWSON, Y.T.—Dan Vanhobby, well-known Dawson trapper and big game guide, told how he successfully beat off a pack of vicious, half-starved dogs near Eagle, Alaska.

Vanhobby, uninjured, returned here after six months of work on his trap line near the Arctic circle.

He told how he was in the habit of spending several days each spring with oldtimer Chris Nelson whose cabin is at the mouth of the Nation river near Eagle.

The Dawson trapper said he became worried as he approached Nelson's cabin. "There was no smoke coming from the chimney," he explained.

"Suddenly, as I neared the cabin, my dog team was set upon by Nelson's snarling, half-starved pack. A couple of them came at me, but I kept swinging at them with a piece of wood that lay on the ground," he said.

"They kept slinking around, taking the old lunge at my dogs, but I finally managed to get into Nelson's cabin," he added.

Vanhobby said he found the oldtimer's dead body in the cabin and notified Alaskan authorities on his way through to Dawson.

The trapper said Nelson had apparently been dead for some time.

"He was in the habit of crossing off each day on the calendar and making notes in the form of a diary," Vanhobby said.

"In the cabin I noticed the calendar had not been marked off for 20 days," he said.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

"Just One Touch of Nature!"

The tragic death of a three-year-old girl in California who fell down a 14-inch pipe of a disused well, and the frantic attempts to rescue her, aroused sympathy throughout the world as the story was unfolded on the radio.

It illustrated the point that "just one touch of nature makes the whole world kin," for the work of those attempting a rescue in the faint hope that the child might be alive, was followed from hour to hour with sympathetic interest, and with thoughts of the anguish of the parents.

So many young lives are sacrificed through human carelessness. Some one left this dangerous trap, never stopping to think of the tragedy that might ensue.

Too often this winter there has been recorded the loss of young lives by fire, and in most instances they were the result of human carelessness. The pity of it is that young children are the victims of the carelessness of older people.

ANSWERS TO CURRENT FALLACIES

Some time ago, R. J. Deachman, the well-known Ottawa economist, offered a prize for the best answers to certain statements which a great many people think are true and most of us, indeed would like to be true. Here they are:

The winner of the prize was W. C. Wood of the W. C. Wood Company, Guelph. His answers to these questions were very good indeed, and were as follows:

These assertions and the answers to them deserve the widest publicity. If the majority of people understand the wisdom and soundness of these replies and act accordingly, we should be able to keep our economy on a sound and sane basis. (Reprinted from the Canadian Countryman, Published in Toronto, Ontario.)

1. The world owes everybody a living.

2. This is an age of plenty.

3. Production for use instead of profit would raise the standard of living.

4. A reduction of the working day to six hours and two weeks holidays with pay, while retaining the same rate of wages, would eliminate unemployment.

5. It is possible to increase production so as to give every Canadian a much higher standard of living.

6. The size of the national debt is wholly unimportant.

7. If we can have good times in war, we can have good times in peace.

1. False. The world owes us a living only in proportion to our service to the world.

2. False. The greater part of the world is very, very short of even the barest essentials.

3. False. Production has always been for use. Profit, the by-product of efficiency, is used to create further progress.

4. False. Unemployment can only be eliminated by reducing costs and prices to the point where demand for goods will maintain full employment.

5. True. This can only be achieved under real freedom of enterprise; that is, unrestricted competition and free market.

6. False. A huge national debt restricts productive capacity, increases taxes and limits capital investment in productive machinery and research.

7. False. Eventually we, our children must make the sacrifice caused by the wastage of war.

Winnipeg Looking for Its Old Timers

Winnipeg is planning to stage a monster celebration during the week of June 5th to 11th, to commemorate its 75th anniversary as an incorporated city. An all-round program is being prepared to take in pageantry, parades, sports events, carnival attractions, fire-works, musical and cultural entertainment.

Winnipeg's anniversary week will also be the occasion for an old-timers' re-union, and the city is anxious to have the names and addresses of all men and women, who lived in the city prior to 1886; these names and addresses should be sent to the Anniversary Office, City Hall, Winnipeg.

Knowledge Will Conquer CANCER

A FRANKER recognition of the Cancer peril on the part of each individual citizen is of vital importance in the fight to conquer the disease. We've got to realize that Cancer is a disease we can fight, and the most effective way to fight cancer is a willingness to discuss it and to learn all we can about it.

Although doctors and medical scientists have not yet discovered why certain body cells turn traitor and prey on healthy body cells, they do know that once cancer growth begins to develop, its victim is usually warned by certain DANGER SIGNALS.

You should know these danger signals. If you notice one of them in yourself it might mean that you have cancer. But if you go to your doctor immediately, the chances are that if it's cancer he will be able to treat it successfully with surgery, X-Ray or radium.

EARLY CANCER CAN BE CURED IF TREATED BEFORE IT SPREADS.

If you wait until you are in pain it may be too late.

Learn to Recognize the Seven Commonest Danger Signals of Cancer . . .

1. Any sore that does not heal.
2. A lump or thickness in the breast or elsewhere.
3. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
4. Any change in a wart or mole.
5. Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
6. Persistent hoarseness or cough.
7. Any change in normal bowel habits.

It is to be emphasized that these signals don't always mean cancer. Only a doctor can be sure. So go to your doctor immediately if you have any reason to suspect that you or a member of your family has cancer.

Rt. Hon. Louis S. St. Laurent, MP

Prime Minister of Canada
Louis Stephen St. Laurent,
born in Compton, Quebec, Feb.
1, 1882, of French-Canadian and Irish-Canadian parents. Educated at St. Charles College, Sherbrooke, Que., and at Laval University, Quebec City. Graduated in law. In June, 1914, was appointed professor of Law at Laval.

He has been awarded LL.D.'s
by six universities: Queen's University, 1930; University of Manitoba, 1935; University of Montreal, 1943; Bishop's College, 1943; Dalhousie University, 1947,
and the University of Ottawa, 1947. On January 1, 1946, he was made a member of the Imperial Privy Council.

At the national convention of

NO MORE TAX CUTS?

Unless there is a new, a sincere and a sustained effort made to economize, the recent Dominion budget may go down in history as the last one to incorporate any major tax cuts.

Mr. Abbott was lucky. He was still coasting along on close to peak wartime revenues more than two years after direct war expenses had ceased. He could afford to play the role of Santa Claus and he did. But it won't be so easy to repeat that performance because government expenditures are on the rise again.

Ten years ago total government expenditures were just a shade under $535 millions. Today the total is almost exactly four times as much. True, there is our share of a second world war to pay exactly for, but there are a lot of other extras, too.
There are baby bonuses, old age pensions, health and other social services and price subsidies that cost the Dominion Treasury over a thousand millions a year. And there is a steadily expanding civil service.

In 1939 total number of persons directly employed by the Dominion Government on both permanent and temporary basis was well under 50,000. Today over 122,000 people are on the government payroll.

To reverse that trend, to cut down the civil service, and ordinary government expenditures is going to take a mighty and sustained effort, but down it must go if we are ever going to receive any further and substantial tax relief.

The future lies at the point of the drill

The names of Canada's new oil fields have been heard from coast to coast... Leduc, Woodbend, Redwater.

They are fields discovered in the greatest search for oil in Canada's history. Already they have brought benefits to all Canadians; and in the west where they are turning back the tide of expensive imports the direct savings are counted in millions.

But before the fullest benefits can reach everyone even more oil must be found.

The successes of the past two years have been possible because there were people willing to go on risking millions in the search in spite of repeated disappointments.

Now, after the barren years that went before, these new fields seem large—and they are large! But they are far from enough to make Canada self-sufficient.

Canada is still dependent on foreign countries for more than 80 per cent of her oil and so her own resources must be developed. Exploration must be continued. More and more wells must be drilled so that markets can be expanded.

There is not yet enough oil to justify the big investments that will be needed if all Canadians are to enjoy the fullest benefits of western resources. Pipe lines, for instance, cost a lot to build; but over the years they provide low-cost transportation—so necessary to reach out to wider markets. The Edmonton-Regina line planned by Imperial is but a beginning.

Further discoveries are the only means of breaking through the distance barriers that hamper oil with transportation costs. The future lies at the point of the drill.

IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED

If you're interested in facts...

While it is now estimated the known oil in Alberta is roughly equal to our needs for the next five years, actually this oil could not be produced efficiently in less than 20 years.

To meet her present oil requirements it has been estimated Canada needs reserves of several million barrels.

Imperial's 450-mile pipe line from Edmonton to Regina is expected to be in operation by the end of next year. Cost is estimated at between $35 and $40 million. It is a step towards wider markets.

Bringing you oil is a big job—and a costly one.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

DISCOVERY

Woman Always Goes Sentimental And Weak At A Wedding.

By ESTHER M. DOUTY

As he waited before the altar, Kent Farish hoped desperately that the wedding guests would consider his nervous perspiration only natural. Above the slow wedding music, his heart thudded in his ears. From the corner of his eye, he watched a small cloud of pink feathers floating on a wisp of veil above a well-molded but hard young face.

How dared she come! The little cat! And of all things, sitting right in front!

What would Marie think? She had worked so hard to have their wedding perfect.

He wet his lips and swallowed. "Take it easy," Clark, his best man, whispered.

Clark didn't know, of course. No one knew. How could he have become involved with Kay anyway? He turned so he could see her face. That was a mistake. Kay was staring at him, her eyes wide. A meaning smile played about her lips. Her fingers toyed with the necklace he, like an idiot, had given her.

He jerked his head away, damning himself for a twice-made fool, one for taking up with Kay and again for not pressuring Marie into an elopement. She had done it, just as she said she would. She had brazened her way to the front where she could watch Kent vow to love and cherish Marie.

Would she really go through with her threat? He held his hands to his eyes to press away the black spots in front of them. Would she dare break up the ceremony by screeching accusations just as he and Marie were being pronounced man and wife?

There was a hush. Softly, the organ began the wedding march. Marie was entering with her father. She was lovely as a bride should be, her eyes soft and lustrous, her lips curving with happiness. He would always love her. If only he could forget Kay's mocking presence.

They knelt before the minister. Through the mistiness of her veil, he could see Marie's long eyelashes. He felt the soft pressure of her hand. She was reminding him of his responses.

Then, blessedly, it was over. Marie was all radiance and smiles as she stepped gracefully down the aisle, her hand on his arm proudly possessive.

He couldn't keep from darting a guarded glance at Kay. She had a silly, almost wacky look.

Out in the fresh air, he rushed Marie into the waiting car. "Hurry! Hurry!" his brain dictated.

The car moved away from Marie's moist-eyed family, the guests. He saw Kay on the steps. Her jaw was squared, menacing.

The limousine rounded the driveway. Safe! Kent relaxed, suddenly exhausted and perspiring. Then his bride was in his arms.

"Sweetheart, loveliest," he murmured. He trembled as he kissed her.

Marie held him off fondly. "You foolish darling, I've never seen such a nervous bridegroom. But I'm glad you were, duckie. That showed Kay Landers how you really felt about things, all right?"

Kent went rigid. "Kay?"

His bride laughed. "But of course, Love. I sent Kay Landers an invitation to our wedding. She came to see me last week—and had a lot to say. She swore she was coming to the wedding, no matter what, so I thought she might as well get a good look. You know a woman always goes sentimental and weak at a wedding, even when the groom is her—an old boy friend."

Tom Creighton, Discoverer Of Flin Flon

FLIN FLON, Man.—Tom Creighton, 75, discoverer of the fabulously rich mining property which gave this Northern Manitoba town its name, died after a lengthy illness. He chose the name Flin Flon from a "pulp mystery" thriller.

Creighton stumbled on the property in January, 1915. In the years since, the mine's production of copper, zinc, gold and silver has amounted to roughly $250,000,000. The property is owned by the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company Ltd. Although Creighton made his discovery in 1915, it was not until more than a decade and a half later that the mine began production. The mine contained refractory ore—its constituent parts could not be broken up by processes of the day—and many established companies declined to undertake the job.

After its possibilities had been rejected by a number of such companies, New York interests then entirely unfamiliar with mining operations decided that some method must be available that would make the property a paying proposition. Millions of dollars were spent in experiments and five years passed before the dream was achieved.

From the wilderness, this town of 7,600 population straddling the Manitoba-Saskatchewan border, grew up as mining operations expanded. Creighton had been carrying the mystery magazine containing the story about Flin Flon when he made his discovery. He had been a prospector for some years before his "strike".

At the time of his death, he was president of the Hudson Bay Air Transport, Ltd., a subsidiary of Hudson Bay Exploration and Development Co., Ltd., and was in charge of prospecting for Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting.

CREAMY CHOCOLATE FUDGE
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
½ cup water
½ cup evaporated milk
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
Dash salt

2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup nut meats, chopped
Add chocolate to water and milk and place over low flame. Cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly. Add sugars and salt and stir until sugars are dissolved and mixture boils. Turn into greased pan 8 by 4 inches. When firm cut into squares.

SAVED BY GLACIAL ACTION

YORKTON, Sask.—Saskatchewan would be quite barren if it had not been subject to glacial action thousands of years ago, Leo Kustush of Yorkton Collegiate, told the local natural history society. Glacial action, he said, had torn up limestone formations in Manitoba and spread them evenly over Saskatchewan.

Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said the common law government has no intention of paying a subsidy on butter.

Canadians Eating More Pork Products

CARP, Ont.—Agriculture Minister James Gardiner said Great Britain would have to wait beyond the end of the year to get the 160,000,000 pounds of bacon in the agreement with this country.

He said Canadians were eating about double the amount of pork products they did before the war. Total amount of the Anglo-Canadian bacon agreement might be made up of deliveries after end of the agreement, Gardiner said.

ed when Fred Guerard, of the Coleman Lions Club expressed fears that the drama festival planned by the Lions would have to be cancelled due to the difficulties of staging the proposed festival in the Coleman high school auditorium.

An official announcement will likely be forthcoming following the directors' meeting scheduled for next Monday night.

The main obstacles to the use of the school auditorium are the limited dressing facilities and Mr. Guerard doubted whether any additional means of providing the all important dressing rooms could be arranged.

Two dramatic companies had already signified their intention to take part in the festival, a Coleman group and the Fernie Dramatic Society. "The lack of backstage facilities at the auditorium is a serious handicap to the presentation of first-class plays", said Mr. Guerard, "and rather than detract from the enjoyment of the audience, the feeling is that we had better cancel the competition until we can arrange for better staging accommodation."

THE BANK's the place for my money. I always put part of my pay into my bank account—otherwise it burns a hole in my pocket. I guess I trust the bank more than I trust myself! I figure that's one reason why my savings have been building up the way they have.

Another reason I'm sold on a bank account is that I always know just where I stand. All I have to do is take a look at my pass-book. They're a lot better bookkeepers than I am.

What's more, what's in my pass-book is my business, and I can count on the bank people to keep their mouths shut about it. And that suits me just fine!
